

It is Time Again Now For Those Old Rheumatic Pains

Season after Season Some Folks Persist and Bear Their Pains While Science Steadily Marches Forward and Others Are Being Relieved.

LABORATORY HAS PERFECTED PREPARATION TO BE USED WITH WELL KNOWN REMEDY

After long study, research and experimentation a preparation has been created and perfected for immediate, (external) use in case of pain, by the same aggregation of experts who at the great Dayton, Ohio, Laboratory under the leadership of the eminent German chemist, Herr Joseph Trimbach, created and perfected the nationally known remedy Tanlac.

Not until many tests under all sorts of conditions had proved beyond doubt the new medicine's efficiency, would they place their approval and endorsement even on this, their own preparation and now we who have periodically been troubled with aches and pains, sore, stiff joints, rheumatic arms, shoulders and limbs, lumbago, sciatica and kindred ills that always are at their worst just at this time of the year, we can rest better for already folks are talking about what Kimmo-San Oil is doing for them. Kimmo-San Oil is the name of the new preparation and it may be secured at any Tanlac agent 25 cents per bottle and at this extremely low price hundreds are already taking it to temporarily relieve the sore, stiff or aching joints and muscles while Tanlac by a regular treatment is more slowly working towards a permanent and complete cure.

Tanlac of course is designed to restore the kidneys to normal, cleanse, purify and enrich the poor, impoverished and poisoned blood and by thus removing the cause we cannot fail to be relieved, while Kimmo-San Oil is created not as a cure but rather as a quick first aid when pains and aches are bad. The two form a combination treatment so far unequalled and worthy a thorough test by all troubled with kidney, uric acid, rheumatic or kindred ills. Farrell's Drug Store is the sole agent for Tanlac and Kimmo-San Oil here.—Advertisement.

INPAIRED NAVY UNDER DANIELS CAMPAIGN ISSUE

"A Vote for Wilson is a Vote for Secretary of the Navy Daniels."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—"A vote for Wilson is a vote for Daniels."

This is one of the most frequently heard battle cries of the present presidential campaign. It is not, however, the slogan of a proud, a self-glorifying Democracy. It is a Republican warning to voters.

The re-election of Mr. Wilson would confide the navy, with its critically important new building program, to Daniels for four more years, and only the defeat of Wilson can be depended upon to rescue the navy from the blight of the Daniels policies.

There are those who hoped for the sake of the navy and the nation that Daniels could be goaded into resigning, but they now despair. "I am not the resigning kind," he chuckled in response to an inquiry at one time by a newspaper correspondent.

Irretrievable Delay.

So Mr. Daniels, pacifist, politician and Bryanite, is rounding out four years of management of the nation's first line of defense, during which he has helped to set the navy back from second to fourth, if not fifth, world rank; has delayed, almost irretrievably, the construction of new ships; has put as many ships out of as into commission; has impaired the efficiency of gunnery and navigation; has injured discipline and morale; has rewarded toadying officers and punished independent officers who held the best interests of the navy at heart; has played "pork barrel" politics, and generally has either supported or misrepresented the facts concerning the true condition of the nation's sea forces.

And Daniels is confidently looking forward to another four years in which to "complete the work" he has begun.

To make the navy the impregnable "bulwark of the nation" has not been the object of Mr. Daniels. To the officers of the navy war college, intent upon the production of efficient fighting units, Mr. Daniels thus disclosed his chief source of pride in his work; The most thankful day of my service as secretary was the day when the committee decided to increase the number of chaplains from twenty-four to fifty-two.

"His 'Educational' Program.

One of the principal aims in his administration Mr. Daniels described in these words: "My great ambition is to make the navy a great university, with college extension, high school extension, and primary extension, all on board ship. The chief lack in the navy is a systematic and proper instruction of the young men who enlist."

This "reform," however, was short lived. In the words of a naval officer of high rank, "this was too damned silly to last." When Mr. Daniels made the momentous "reform" he abolished the post of aid for personnel and created an "aid for education." That dignitary sat around the department for six months trying to find out what an aid for education is intended to do. Failing, he pleaded that he be sent back to sea. Thus the famous experiment ended.

In the meantime the secretary had been forced to grant dispensations eliminating the compulsory school during battle practice; then during coaling; then during days in port, until at length practically no day of the year was not covered by a dispensation.

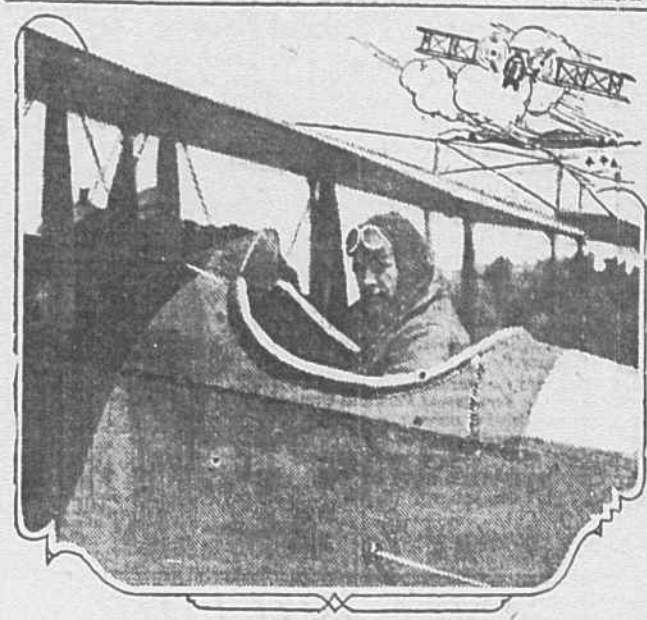

Mr. Daniels also made much of his abolition of the wine mess aboard ship, although there were court martials last year in thirteen cases of intoxication, exactly the same number as in the year before.

Some Navy Defects.

While Mr. Daniels was indulging in these pastimes he was doing little or nothing to remove these grave defects of the navy listed by Admiral Fletcher:

Shortage of Officers.
Sortage of men.
Lack of fast armored ships and fast light cruisers.

Limitation of mobility and sea-going qualities of submarines.
Lack of aircraft.
Lack of radio direction finder.
Too frequent overhaul of battleships.

Failure to mobilize ships in reserve annually.
Lack of target practice at long range.
Lack of adequate facilities at fleet rendezvous.

Lack of division commanders for auxiliary divisions.
Low speed of warships.
Lack of anti-aircraft guns.

The dangerous conditions of the navy due to insufficient personnel were persistently scouted by Daniels. Admiral Fiske complained that he had only twelve battleships in service. Admiral Fiske said that twelve ships in the recent war game had less than forty per cent of the quota of regular officers. Mr. Daniels put one new battleship into service by the simple expedient of stripping two others of their officers and men and sending the ships into the inactive list.

The record shows that no fewer than eight battleships, none over ten years old and theoretically all good for ten years' more service, were withdrawn and sent into reserve in order that their combined personnel might be used for commissioning the Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and Nevada.

Here are eleven battleships which are now rotting from disuse because the administration has failed to man them: Louisiana, Virginia, Georgia, New Jersey, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Alabama, Maine, Kearsarge, Illinois and Kentucky.

Decreases Battle Efficiency.

Admiral Fletcher's evidence is that today only eighteen battleships could possibly go to war, and that to obtain the men to man them it would be necessary to strip their essential auxiliaries, thus decreasing the battle efficiency of the whole effective fleet.

Admiral Fiske declared the navy, as a result of negligence in maintaining the standard, could not be an effective fighting force for five years. And Admiral Fiske, because his utterances were not politically pleasing, was muzzled.

Always before this a navy secretary has sought to get the most possible. Mr. Daniels has sought to get as little as possible. In his first year he asked for only fourteen ships, and even a Democratic Congress, penurious as it was in matters of national welfare, insisted on giving him eighteen. In his second year, with the European war in progress, he asked for only eighteen and Congress made him take twenty-seven. He asked for only eleven submarines in the two years and a pacifist Congress made him take twenty-seven.

Obsolete Equipment.

While Mr. Daniels was "reforming" the navy the battleship fleet was equipped with obsolete torpedoes and the submarines were in no condition for service. He issued a statement so worded that the public and Congress were led to believe the undersea boats had made the long cruise from Florida to Sandy Hook under their own power. He boasted of the extraordinary feat. He boasted, however, that only part of the flotilla had started from Hampton roads. Several gave out and literally had to be towed "into action."

A special board of the navy recommended the abandonment of the government's Mare Island navy yard, pointing out that there is not sufficient draft for the great battleships in that section of San Francisco bay. However, when the new ship California was to be built the need of pleasing California voters induced the administration to order the great ship built there. It is now about two per cent completed. When the California is nearer completion the government will either have to haul it elsewhere for adding the heavy armament or will have to spend several million dollars dredging a new channel.

"Pork Barrel" Harbor.

Charleston harbor, which is constantly being improved by the southern pork hunters, has only thirty-two feet draft at high tide. A battleship needs thirty-five. Yet not only is there now a battleship drydock in Charleston harbor, but Secretary Daniels personally recommended spending more on the harbor. For Norfolk he has been demanding a drydock, opposing meat-time a drydock at Philadelphia. The only way the naval committee could get the one at Philadelphia was to recommend two drydocks—only one of which is needed. Yet work has dragged for years on the 1913 battleships.

On December 2, 1914, Captain Mark Bristol testified that before the war opened France had twenty-two Russia, eighteen dirigibles, 800 aeroplanes; Great Britain, nine dirigibles, 400 aeroplanes; Germany, forty dirigibles, 1,000 aeroplanes; Austria, eight dirigibles, 400 aeroplanes. Even Serbia had sixty aeroplanes; Belgium had 100 and two dirigibles. The United States had no dirigibles and only twenty-three aeroplanes.

Yet with that information, and with enlightened advisers pointing out the indispensable character of aircraft, Mr. Daniels calmly reduced the recommendations for aircraft. Congress ignored him and voted a larger appropriation.

Jess Willard Says: "Take Nuxated Iron"

If you want plenty of 'stay there' strength and endurance and health and muscles like mine."

Ordinary Nuxated Iron will often increase strength and endurance of the delicate nervous folks 200 per cent in two weeks' time.

SPECIAL NOTICE—Dr. E. Sauer, a well known physician, who has studied widely in both this country and Europe, has been specially employed to make a thorough investigation into the real secret of the great strength, power and endurance of Jess Willard, and the marvelous value of nuxated iron as a strength builder.

NEW YORK.—Upon being interviewed at his apartment in the Colonial Hotel, Mr. Willard said: "Yes, I have a chemist with me to study the value of different foods and products as to their power to produce great strength and endurance, both of which are so necessary in the prize ring. On his recommendation I have often taken nuxated iron and I have particularly advocated the free use of iron by all those who wish to obtain great physical and mental power. Without it I am sure that I would never have been able to whip Jack Johnson so completely and easily as I did, and while training for my bout with Frank Moran, I regularly took nuxated iron and I am certain that it was a most important factor in my winning so easily." Continuing, Dr. Sauer said: "Mr. Willard's case is only one of hundreds which I could cite from my own personal experience which proves conclusively the astonishing power of nuxated iron to restore strength and vitality even in most complicated chronic conditions."

Not long ago a man came to me who was nearly half a century old, and asked me to give him a preliminary examination for life insurance. I was astonished to find him with the blood pressure of a boy of 20 and a fullness of vigor, vim and vitality as a young man; in fact, young men are really so notwithstanding his age. The secret he said was taking iron—nuxated iron had filled him with renewed life. At 20 he was in bad health; at 40 careworn and nearly all in. Now at 60 a miracle of vitality and his face beaming with the buoyancy of youth. As I have said a hundred times over, iron is the greatest of all strength builders. If people would only throw away patent medicines and nauseous concoctions and take simple nuxated iron, I am convinced that the lives of thousands of persons might be saved from the slow, every year from pneumonia, grippe, consumption, kidney, liver and heart trouble, etc. The real and true cause which started their disease was nothing more or less than

I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance.

Jess Willard

A hitherto untold secret of his great victory over Jack Johnson and Frank Moran.

A weakened condition brought on by lack of iron in the blood, iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change food into living tissue. Without it, no matter how much or what you eat, your food merely passes through you without doing you any good. You don't get the strength out of it and as a consequence you become weak, pale and sickly looking just like a plant trying to grow in a soil deficient of iron. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you wish it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless.

Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day by taking iron. He knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the arena, while many another has gone to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.—E. Sauer, M.D.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron, recommended above by Dr. Sauer, is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents are widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 on any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent, or over in four weeks' time, provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

I consider that plenty of iron in my blood is the secret of my great strength, power and endurance.
